The Jaycee Creed by C. William Brownfield

We believe that faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life;
That the brotherhood of man transcends
the sovereignty of nations;
That economic justice can best be won
by free men through free enterprise;
That government should be of laws rather than of men;
That earth's great treasure lies in human personality; and that
SERVICE TO HUMANITY IS THE BEST WORK OF LIFE

President's Report

Can We Reach Growth in 2014? You Are the Key

Hello again Lansing Jaycees! We are now in the final stretch of 2014 and I thought I would let you know how we stand in regards to the membership of our chapter. So far this year we are down in overall membership. But! We have a very strong chance at getting to growth before the year is out.

According to the retention projections that Membership Director Colleen Burton and I have worked on, I'd say we need eight new members by the end of December in order to finish with one more member than we started the year with. But I think we could get at least 10, if everybody pitches in a little.

How do we get 10 more people to join the greatest young people's organization in the world? Well, the best way to get anybody to join is by word of mouth. Are you a Jaycee, a former Jaycee, perhaps even a Past President? Do you, or did you, enjoy your time as a Jaycee? Do you know anybody between the ages of 21 and 40 who you think might also enjoy what the Lansing Jaycees have to offer? Well then tell them about us, invite them to our events and meetings, and let them know what keeps you coming back. And remember, non-members are welcome to check out almost all of our events in order to see for themselves whether or not we would be a good fit for them. Feel free to send any of your friends, family members, co-workers, or acquaintances my way if they have questions. I would be delighted to talk to them.

Also, stay tuned as I am currently trying to come up with an incentive program to reward our current members for bringing prospects to events and for recruiting new members.

If you have any questions about recruiting new members, or how to bring up the subject of the Lansing Jaycees with your non-Jaycee friends, let me know. I'd be happy to give you some pointers.

Outstanding Young Michigander Two Lansing Area Residents to be Honored

The Michigan Junior Chamber's Outstanding Young Michigander (OYM) and Distinguished Service Awards Program started in 1955 to recognize outstanding community leaders age 21 to 40 years old from around the state of Michigan. The program honors up to five OYMs and five Distinguished Service Awards (DSA) annually who exemplify the best attributes of the state's young people. Honorees selected in past years have represented the heights of progress in all human endeavors. Many have gone on to even greater achievements. All have continued to serve humanity in a great variety of ways.

OYM and DSA recipients will be honored at a ceremony held on Nov. 15 at the Old Town Marquee in Lansing. The ceremony will highlight each winner's career in narrative form and provide a stage from which the honorees can challenge and inspire young people from around Michigan. For each honoree, there will be a video presentation profiling his/her accomplishments, followed by the trophy presentation, and an acceptance speech.

Ticket information can be found here: https://www.eventbrite.com/e/59th-annual-oymdsa-and-michigan-jaycees-91st-presidential-inauguration-tickets-13477089337?aff=eac2&team_reg_type=individual

Our chapter submitted two amazing individuals from the Lansing area, state Rep. Andy Schor and Tashmica 'Firecracker' Torok, and they were selected to be honored!

Schor has been a great leader in the Ingham County area, and as of late, on the charitable gaming issue. He has introduced legislation that would keep charitable gaming how it has been over the past few years, and supported legislation that has gone through the full Senate and House committee to make sure charities still have the option to fundraise through Texas Hold 'Em. He's extremely approachable and willing to work across the aisle to get things done.

Schor is serving his first term representing Michigan's 68th House District, which includes the city of Lansing, as well as parts of Ingham County and Lansing Township.

Some of you may remember Torok from the Nyaka AIDS Orphans Project, where she was development associate. She left Nyaka and has started her own nonprofit, The Firecracker Foundation, an organization working to honor the bravery of children who have survived sexual trauma by building a community invested in the healing of their whole being. For additional information on the foundation, please visit <http://thefirecrackerfoundation.org/>.

Torok was a victim of sexual trauma, and has shared her story across the area on her journey to start The Firecracker Foundation. You may also know her as Nina Firecracker from the Lansing Derby Vixens.

Take Care of Yourself

I was having a tough time deciding what to write about this month, but then I remembered something that came across my thoughts while I was running the Detroit Free Press Marathon International Half recently.

You see, this particular race involves going to Canada across the Ambassador Bridge, running for a few miles along the riverfront, only to return to the United States through the tunnel. Let's be honest – it's not every day someone gets to "run" or "walk" to Canada.

I had a smile on my face for the entire race, despite knowing it would probably be my slowest (it was). I decided early on to enjoy the experience, because who knows if I would ever get the chance to do it again.

And then I thought about the awesome things I've been able to do this year. How I've been able to run the Mackinac Bridge on Labor Day the past two years. I thought about being able to meet John Beilein, Michigan's basketball coach, earlier this year. I've been able to meet two authors who I enjoy and get their signatures. I've participated in five half marathons this year, with one more left on the schedule (in Florida!). I got my passport. I on the 103rd floor of the Willis (Sears) Tower. I recently saw PAUL MCCARTNEY IN CONCERT (yes, still a little excited about this). I could go on and on.

Some of these things were outside my comfort zone. Some are things I've only dreamed of doing. But the point of what I'm writing is that despite being in a rut this year, and being super busy with work, grad school and the Jaycees, we need to do things for ourselves. We get so caught up in everyday life and trivial things that we forget to treat ourselves well or do fun things.

As 2014 begins to come to a close, remember to take care of yourself and do the fun things. That's what is going to help you be a better contributor to your life and the lives of others.

Finish Hard

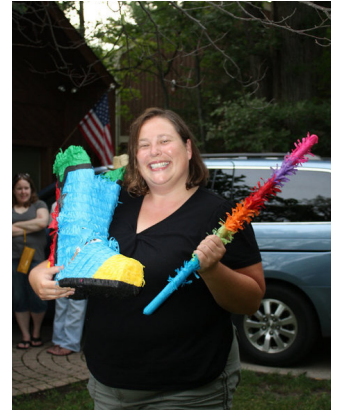

I grew up swimming competitively. In fact, I joined a swim team in kindergarten. There's one thing that was drilled into my head over and over again: finish hard. Swimming is the type of sport where the last five yards of a race are as important, or more important, than all of the other yards in the race. I feel the same way about being on the Board of Directors. I know people get to the end of the year and think it's time to coast, but to me, the end of my year on the board isn't Dec. 31. It's the point when I have transitioned my information to the 2015 Board. So, in honor of finishing hard, here are a few times when that finish meant a lot:

Michael Phelps: He won eight gold medals at the 2008 Beijing Games. His win in the 100 meter butterfly had a margin of victory of 0:00.01. That is one-hundredth of one second. Most people can't even comprehend one-hundredth of a second, but it made all the difference in Phelps' record as winningest Olympian.

Detroit Lions: That's right, I'm pulling out the Lions for this illustration. They have left legions of devoted fans heartbroken for many, many years. You'd think a team that went 0-16 in one season would have lost its fan base, but Detroit fans are among the most dedicated. But on Oct. 19, with the game almost done and the Lions almost losing, Glover Quin intercepted a pass, setting up Golden Tate's 73-yard touchdown catch.

Team USA Hockey, Lake Placid, 1980: I've visited the arena where the Miracle on Ice happened, and I can only imagine the energy in the building that day. The Russian team had dominated the Olympics since 1964. Nobody expected Team USA to do much of anything. After all, the team consisted of college players and players aspiring to go pro. The team had to battle the best in hockey – Finland, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Romania, and West Germany – before facing the Russians in the semi-finals. And the Russians still weren't worried. But the team took to the ice, and though they were down by a goal heading into the third period, they continued to play hard and smart. They tied at 8:39, and two minutes later, scored again to take the lead, and finally the win. This took them to the gold-medal game against Finland, which Team USA won 4-2.

My question to you: what will you do to finish your Jaycee year strong?

Need Help Getting in the Holiday Spirit?

I won't tell you how many shopping days are left until Christmas, the retailers across the country will make sure you know that, but I am happy to talk to you about three exciting ways the Lansing Jaycees can help you get into the holiday spirit and help the chapter at the same time.

First up, this Saturday we're hosting the Holiday One Stop Shop from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Hannah Community Center in East Lansing. This is a great way to get all of your holiday shopping done in one location while helping out the chapter.

Next, we are selling gift cards, which are perfect for gift giving, from Great Lakes Scrip. You can order gift cards for the full face value and the chapter gets a predesignated percentage of the sale.

Last, but not least, we are bringing back Operation Snowman Army for the third year in a row! This event is great fun. If you don't know anything about it, you can purchase a squad (10 snowmen) or a brigade (20 snowmen) and we'll deploy them to a friend or relative's lawn for you.

If you want to purchase gift cards for holiday gifts or invade the lawn of a friend or family member, please let me know. For more information, email me at: lleeds823@gmail.com.

Check Out Our Holiday One Stop Shop

It is hard to believe that November is almost half over. For me, that means I only have a month and half left of being a Lansing Jaycee. I have been a member since March 1, 2002 and it has been a great ride.

Over the years I have had the opportunity to chair several projects some big and some small. Some that are still running and some that have been replaced. This year we are bringing back a project from the graves, not one that I chaired or even was on the committee for but one I did enjoy attending.

On Saturday, Nov. 15 we will host the Lansing Jaycees Holiday One Stop Shop at the Hannah Community Center in East Lansing from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. This will be my final project and I would like to make it the best it possibly can be. To make this happen, I need your help. The committee has worked very hard at getting vendors to sign up to participate now we need helpers and shoppers. We are looking for people to assist with load-in and load-out. They are shorter shifts and allow you to do some shopping after or prior to. Please let me know if you can help.

I encourage each and every one of you to look at an event you would like to plan and go for it. Create a committee (or plan it yourself), it is pretty easy and you will learn so much from it. Knowing how to plan an event is a great skill to have and the Lansing Jaycees can help you learn or enhance that skill.

Hope to see you all there.

A Word From the 87th President-elect ...

I think it was President Dwight D. Eisenhower who said that there is no person fully prepared for the office of President. Granted, he was talking about taking over the position of leader of the free world but I think the same applies in the case of the Lansing Jaycees as well. I am nervous, but I am not worried. The support system in place, both the board and the general membership, is more than enough to make up for where I am lacking.

We have a good organization here, but we have some challenges. Membership is dwindling, fast. Every time a member doesn't renew or ages out we lose more than a full percentage of our numbers. This is partly the nature of the world we live in. The Jaycees and like organizations still have an important place in society but we do not have the prominence we used to. Our fund raising has taken a big hit with the loss of a few days of Texas Hold 'em. This was our single biggest source of revenue and we lost it through no fault of our own. We need to get it replaced if we are to be the kind of organization we want to be.

Am I up to the task? Frankly, no, at least not alone. But I am not alone. These problems are not board problems they are Lansing Jaycees problems and together we can try to fix them. Will we be successful? Hard to say, but we will try. The chapter is not going anywhere this year or the next few years, but our future beyond that is not certain. If we cannot fix these problems we need to take it upon ourselves to put future boards in a better position to implement the solutions.

I am not the cheerleader type, but as President I should try, so here is a rare bit of inspirational language from your curmudgeon in chief: "We can do it! Together!"

Enjoying Autumn

We are now firmly entrenched in autumn, and that brings certain activities and events to the forefront of our minds. In the case of a certain Jaycee who is a friend of mine, it means cold weather, which she hates! I don't mind it. I am one of those annoying people who really does like living in an area with four seasons. I've heard comedians make jokes about this more than once (that it's not actually a choice and people just say that to make themselves feel better), and while they are funny and speak the truth about many people, it's not me. Here are some things that fall means to me.

One, of course, is football. No matter what team you cheer for, whether they are winning or losing, it definitely livens up Saturdays and Sundays. While people in warm areas also watch football, the end of the season wouldn't be the same without bundling up and having hot chocolate or coffee or cider with fellow fans.

Speaking of cider ... apple orchards/cider mills! This is definitely something unique to the cooler climate areas. I don't take home bushels of apples or pumpkins for carving, but I do usually have doughnuts and cider, and at least one caramel apple. There is just something special about the atmosphere of an orchard in the fall.

Earlier this fall, I called my sister to ask what she was doing on a certain weekend because I was getting 'orchard fever' due to the weather, and she had been thinking the same thing. Autumn in Michigan or sisterly ESP? Both, I think.

Beautiful fall colors, in clothing, shoes and other accessories, and on trees. As anyone who has seen me more than once can attest, I love color. I am rarely seen without colorful clothing, I am definitely not one of those people who wear mostly black, white and gray.

Unfortunately, all that beautiful color on the trees ends up on the ground. Which brings me to the last thing, raking. I didn't say these were all good things. I live in a neighborhood filled with old oak and maple trees. Very pretty, nicely shaded ... but the raking, dear God, the raking!

I hope you all have a great autumn. :-)

Past President/Senator Spotlight

Sally Sohn

The Lansing Jaycees' 74th President, Sally Sohn, joined the organization in July of 1987 because she wanted to get involved in the community and meet people. She was a member until she exhausted in January 2004.

She took her time and built up her leadership skills before agreeing to take the helm of the chapter as president in 2002.

Sally is the Administrative Vice President of Sohn Linen Service, Inc., which every member of the Lansing Jaycees knows is a business that does more than it's fair share to support the chapter and the community as a whole.

When asked about great memories or stories she'd like to share, Sally had this to say: "At the 2002 Beers Around the World event at Reno's East, I roped Amy Miller into singing Homer Simpson's Beer Song with me for all of the attendees. As soon as we finished singing, she leaned close to me and said 'I can't believe I just did that. You know I'm going to kill you for that.'"

Sally's greatest take away from her time as a Jaycee is the relationships you can build with other people in the organization. She said: "I was very fortunate to have gotten to know Bob Pancost. He was the Lansing Jaycees 50th president and his contemporaries affectionately and respectfully called him "the King." Although I had a business relationship with him for some time, it was during my year as president that Bob became a valuable mentor and a cherished friend. I could call him or walk into his shop anytime, and he would take time to talk with me. It always amazed me how intuitive he was about the Jaycee issues of the day, considering he was nearly two and a half decades removed from his time as president. Bob taught me the importance of giving back to the chapter that had done so much for me, even after my active days were through."

Sally lives her life by this line from the Jaycee Creed: "... service to humanity is the best work of life!"

Jaycee Trivia
